作者からひとこと

お久しぶりです。
またははじめまして、藤真拓哉です。

講談社では実に3年ぶりの単行本になります。
時のたつのは早いですね〜。

さて、今回のこの「ネギま!?neo」ですが
アニメ「ネギま!?」の漫画版ということになります。
とはいえアニメ同様エヴァンジェリン編までは
赤松先生の本家のほうにもあるお話ですから
正直難しい作業でしたね(汗。

まぁ何はともあれこの怒濤のような5か月間、
他の連載も重なり大変でしたが
ようやく一冊の本になりました。
本家やアニメにもない「エピソード0」の
フェーズのお話も入っていますので
そちらも[illegible]

では。

Now Negi has to find a way to deal with his thirty-one totally gorgeous—and completely overaffectionate—students . . . without using magic! Based on the Negima! anime, this is a fresh take on the beloved Negima! story.

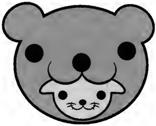
A Word from the Artist



It's been a long time. Or pleased to meet you. I'm Takuya Fujima.

This is actually my first book published by Kodansha in three years. Time sure flies.

Now, about this Negima!? neo. It's the manga version of the anime Negima! But everything in the anime up to the Evangeline story was in Akamatsu-sensei's original work, so, to be honest, this was hard to work on (^_^;).

Well, at any rate, I had another series going on, and these stormy last five months have been really hard. But the series has finally been collected in book format!

There's also episode zero, a story that takes place in Wales and isn't in the original manga or the anime, so I hope you will enjoy that along with the rest.

Later!
—Takuya Fujima

Honorifics Explained

Throughout the Del Rey Manga books, you will find Japanese honorifics left intact in the translations. For those not familiar with how the Japanese use honorifics and, more important, how they differ from American honorifics, we present this brief overview.

Politeness has always been a critical facet of Japanese culture. Ever since the feudal era, when Japan was a highly stratified society, use of honorifics—which can be defined as polite speech that indicates relationship or status—has played an essential role in the Japanese language. When you address someone in Japanese, an honorific usually takes the form of a suffix attached to one's name (example: "Asuna-san"), is used as a title at the end of one's name, or appears in place of the name itself (example: "Negi-sensei," or simply "Sensei!").

Honorifics can be expressions of respect or endearment. In the context of manga and anime, honorifics give insight into the nature of the relationship between characters. Many English translations leave out these important honorifics and therefore distort the feel of the original Japanese. Because Japanese honorifics contain nuances that English honorifics lack, it is our policy at Del Rey not to translate them. Here, instead, is a guide to some of the honorifics you may encounter in Del Rey Manga.

-san: This is the most common honorific and is equivalent to Mr., Miss, Ms., or Mrs. It is the all-purpose honorific and can be used in any situation where politeness is required.

-sama: This is one level higher than "-san" and is used to confer great respect.

-dono: This comes from the word "tono," which means "lord." It is an even higher level than "-sama" and confers utmost respect.

-kun: This suffix is used at the end of boys' names to express familiarity or endearment. It is also sometimes used by men among friends, or when addressing someone younger or of a lower station.

-chan: This is used to express endearment, mostly toward girls. It is also used for little boys, pets, and even among lovers. It gives a sense of childish cuteness.

Bozu: This is an informal way to refer to a boy, similar to the English terms "kid" and "squirt."

Sempai/ Senpai: This title suggests that the addressee is one's senior in a group or organization. It is most often used in a school setting, where underclassmen refer to their upperclassmen as "sempai." It can also be used in the workplace, such as when a newer employee addresses an employee who has seniority in the company.

Kohai: This is the opposite of "sempai" and is used toward underclassmen in school or newcomers in the workplace. It connotes that the addressee is of a lower station.

Sensei: Literally meaning "one who has come before," this title is used for teachers, doctors, or masters of any profession or art.

-[blank]: This is usually forgotten in these lists, but it is perhaps the most significant difference between Japanese and English. The lack of honorific, known as yobisute, means that the speaker has permission to address the person in a very intimate way. Usually, only family, spouses, or very close friends have this kind of permission. It can be gratifying when someone who has earned the intimacy starts to call one by one's name without an honorific. But when that intimacy hasn't been earned, it can be very insulting.

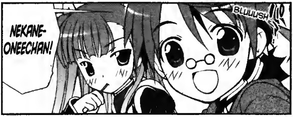
Translation Notes

Japanese is a tricky language for most Westerners, and translation is often more an art than a science. For your edification and reading pleasure, here are notes on some of the places where we could have gone in a different direction or where a Japanese cultural reference is used.

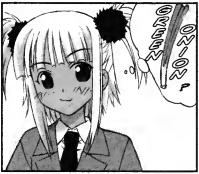


Nekane, page 10

In Japanese, Negi refers to Nekane as Oneechan (Older Sister) or Nekane-oneechan (Sister Nekane). But here, Negi is in Wales. Since the original is written for a Japanese audience, he still calls her Nekane-oneechan, even though in English sister usually refers to nuns.

Aniki, page 47

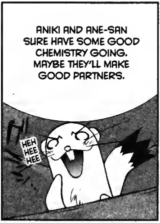
Aniki is one way to address one's older brother in Japanese. It's also used, often by gang member types like Chamo, to refer to someone's superior or someone they respect.



GREEN ONION?

Green onion?, page 58

Negi's name means "green onion" in Japanese. Since Kū Fei is still learning Japanese, it's no wonder she would be a little confused.



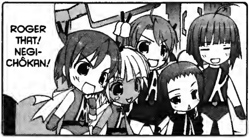
ANIKI AND ANE-SAN SURE HAVE SOME GOOD CHEMISTRY GOING. MAYBE THEY'LL MAKE GOOD PARTNERS.
HEH HEE HEE

Ane-san, page 102

Ane-san is a female version of Aniki. It can refer to an older sister but is often used to refer to a female leader (often of a gang) or the wife or girlfriend of a male leader or of one's Aniki.

Mahora Sentai Baka Rangers, page 184

Sentai means "battle squadron" in Japanese. Because each set of Power Rangers forms a sentai, sentai is also what they call the Power Rangers genre in Japan.



ROGER THAT! NEGI-CHÔKAN!

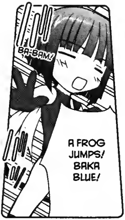
Chôkan means "chief" or "director." As the Baka Rangers' commander, it is a fitting title for little Negi.



BA-BAM!
A FROG JUMPS! BAKA BLUE!

A frog jumps, page 185

For her introduction, Kaede chooses to use the middle line from a famous haiku poem by the poet Bashô. The haiku goes furu ike ya / kawazu tobikomu / mizu no oto and translates roughly to "An old pond, a frog jumps in. The sound of water."

SD characters, page 187
